MANY QUESTIONNAIRES TURNED IN BY CHILDREN

A Total of 1,871 Are Thus Far Turned In To The Building Inspector

MUCH DATA THEREON

Official tabulation of the questionnaires called "Home Inspection Blanks," which children of both the public and parochial schools of Bristol have been answering during Fire Prevention Week, is now being completed in office of the Building Inspector, John S. Roberts, Jr.

It was announced this morning that thus far a total of 1,871 questionnaires had been turned in from the three schools here. These questionnaires are now being assorted into districts, streets, etc., and a general resume made of their contents. Each one is to be studied carefully by the Building Inspector's office and there is to be a general compilation of the data contained thereon.

A total of 1,428 questionnaires were turned in by the Bristol public schools and St. Mark's Parochial school reported a total of 216 and St. Ann's Parochial School students at total of 140.

Out of the above totals 76 of the number reported by the public schools were compiled by students residing outside of the borough and out of the total reported by St. Mark's school there were 17 reported by students residing outside of Bristol.

Needlework Guild Has Successful Card Party

The card party given by the Needlework Guild in the Elks' Home on Tuesday evening was a very successful affair.

The committee wishes to thank the public for its patronage at these parties and also the Elks for their courtesy, in so generously donating the use of their room at any time.

Mrs. Edward Renk deserves much credit for the beautiful prizes which she had solicited for the occasion. There were thirty in number and Mrs. Chester Beaton, who had high score of 3790, selected a blue silk sofa pillow.

Others who attained high scores were: Mrs. John Bruden, 3740; Mrs. Anna Burke, 3650; Mrs. N. M. Marshall, 3580; Miss Ida Bruden, 3570; Mrs. John Downs, 3440; Mrs. William Carver, 3390; Mrs. V. V. Plumb, 3100; Mrs. F. Nealis, 3070; Mrs. J. Singer, 3020; Mrs. D. Baker, 3010; Mrs. Peet, 2930; Mr. H. W. Rue, 2790; Mrs. W. H. H. Fine, 2780; J. Roberts, 2750; Mrs. L. K. Miller, 2710; Mrs. R. L. Downs, 2630; Mrs. M. H. Goldman, 2610; Mrs. Jersey, 2610; Mrs. H. Hanson, 2550; Mrs. Emlen Martin, 2550; Mrs. William Leferts, 2480.

Congratulations!

Editor, Courier:
I want to congratulate the Courier on the metropolitan manner in which you handled the account of the tragic deaths of Lieutenant Noel Davis and Lieutenant Stanton H. Wooster. I found your stories of the crash of the "American Legion" far more complete and more intelligently displayed than in the local dailies of the twenty-sixth. I was very much interested in your items giving the size of the giant airship and its capacity.

It was a real pleasure to read the Courier and note the intelligent manner in which you made use of possibly the "biggest" bit of national news in many months that was of intense interest to the people of your community.

The International News Service is proud to number the Courier among the list of its clients.

Very sincerely yours,

MAN INJURED WHILE REMOVING STUMP OF POLE

Benjamin Broadbridge Suffers Severe Wounds When Cable Wrench Snaps

TREATED AT HOSPITAL

An employee of A. J. Sardon, contractor, was injured this morning, while engaged in removing the stump of a pole on Wood street.

Benjamin Broadbridge, of 280 East Circle, was the workman hurt. Together with other employees of the company, he was near the end of the cable being used in extricating the end of the pole. The wrench of the cable flew off, striking Broadbridge on the right eye.

He was immediately taken to the Harriman Hospital, where it was learned he had a badly lacerated and contused wound. Two stitches were taken to close the cut.

The injured man is still confined to the hospital, where a careful watch is being kept of the member. It is not thought the wound will affect his vision.

TWO ARE SENT TO PENITENTIARY AND ONE TO COUNTY JAIL

Eight More Cases Disposed Of During The Day At Court

20 CASES CONCLUDED

Kraft Brothers Are Given Sentences For Robbing Garage

(Special to Courier)

DOYLESTOWN, May 5.—Two defendants were sentenced to the Eastern State Penitentiary and another to the Bucks County Prison Tuesday by Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, specially presiding at the May term of criminal court of Bucks county. Eight more cases were disposed of during the day, bringing the total to over twenty since Court business started Monday afternoon.

For stealing eight tires and a small amount of money from a garage near Morrisville, Arthur Kraft, of Yardley, was sentenced to serve not less than one year and six months or more than three years in the Eastern Penitentiary. His brother, Henry Kraft, also found guilty of the same offense, was sentenced to serve not less than one or more than two years in the Bucks County Prison.

The Kraft brothers were tried before a jury. It was found they had criminal records in the local court. John S. Applegate, another defendant indicted for the same offense is at the present time serving time in a New Jersey prison. His case was continued until a later term of court.

The other defendant sentenced to serve not less than one year and six months or more than three years in the Eastern State Penitentiary at hard labor and solitary confinement was Frank Fortunato, of Roolof, Lower Makenfield township. He was found guilty by a jury of a heinous offense alleged to have been committed upon his own daughter.

Charged with operating his automobile in New Britain while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, a jury acquitted Russell Shive, of Doylestown, but directed that he pay the costs.

Upon payment of costs, sentence was suspended upon Robert Vansant, of Morrisville, who pleaded guilty to a serious charge. Vansant had already served 59 days in the Bucks County prison. The defendant was allowed sixty days in which to pay the costs.

A jury acquitted John Weiss, of Bristol, of charges of nuisance and malicious mischief. Weiss, according to the prosecution witnesses, while under the influence of liquor, broke things up in general while incarcerated in the Bristol police station. He damaged some of the furnishings and was almost beyond control for a time. The jury trying the case placed the costs on Weiss and Judge Shull gave the defendant sixty days in which to raise the money.

Ralph Mondeau, of near Quakertown, aged 14, admitted that he participated in the theft of a number of automobile tires and accessories together with other members of a "gang" that stole in the upper-end section of Bucks county. Judge Shull committed him to the Glen Mills Reformatory School. Other members of the "gang" pleaded guilty on Monday afternoon and one other remains to be tried before other sentences will be pronounced.

Henry E. Eismann, of Philadelphia, chauffeur of an armored automobile that struck and fatally injured Daniel Johnson, colored, of Trenton, on the free bridge between Morrisville and Trenton on the afternoon of January 10, was acquitted yesterday afternoon by a jury on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, but was directed to pay the costs.

Eismann, employed by the Armored Service Corporation, contractors for the transportation of large sums of money and valuables, was tried before Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, specially presiding at the present term of criminal court of Bucks County.

In his defense, Eismann testified that he was crowded off the main part of the bridge toward the side where he struck a hole in the curb that caused him to run up on the sidewalk where Johnson was walking with another man. He testified that he did all that was humanly possible to stop his car and that he never saw the man in front of the machine since he was looking straight ahead. Eismann said that it was the broken curb on the sidewalk that caused his car to jump over the curb.

John Campe, of Trenton, a Commonwealth witness, testified that he and Johnson were walking along the sidewalk of the bridge when Johnson was struck by the armored car that came up from the rear. Campe testified that the next thing he knew, after the accident, was that Johnson had been hit and he saw him underneath the truck. He said that Johnson looked as though he might be dead. Campe said he heard no warning horn from the Eismann truck.

DISTRUST

All this talk about the "brotherhood of man" causes one to wonder if the foundations for such an idealistic relationship have yet been laid. It is a fact that the civilized world has long been laboring on those very foundations, but do they now stand completed? From the evidence in the case the verdict must be that they are not.

A "brotherhood of man" must be preceded by a universal faith in man. As long as individuals, nations and races can not—or at least do not—trust one another there can be no world brotherhood.

Mutual distrust seems as instinctive in man as in the jungle beasts. The World War was a war of distrust and international fear. Nations maintain large armies and navies because they distrust their neighbors and men pass laws because they lack faith in the honesty or judgment of each other.

Is man as faithless and untrustworthy as he appears in his own eyes? The Bible counsels man that "it is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man," and man seems to have interpreted that counsel to mean that man is nowise to be trusted.

People do not trust their neighbors and place less trust in their public servants. Mutual distrust is partially responsible for the motorist-pedestrian, fundamentalist-modernist, capitalist-labor and racial controversies. This particular age has also generated a lack of confidence between young and old.

Perhaps there is greater faith in man today than at any other time in recorded history. There is much to sustain such a conclusion. But man still lacks that universal understanding and faith which is essential to a "brotherhood of man."

CRITICS OF THE NAVY

The time is here for another official inspection of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, after which two things will follow as inevitably as night follows day. The board of visitors will commend the administration of the academy, after which detractors of the institution will present their independent criticism.

Chief among the criticisms of the Naval Academy is that the midshipmen are trained in technical lines to the exclusion of the humanities. The answer to the criticism is that midshipmen are only human and can learn only so much in four years.

To ask the naval students to master philosophy, literature, art and other cultural studies in the same four years they are learning the intricacies of navigation and modern warships and munitions is like asking a doctor to be learned in the law.

In early days officers of the navy were primarily navigators. Today they are responsible for ships on a scale as large and intricate as a large industrial plant. And, compared with modern warfare, early naval tactics were as simple as a game of tag.

So long as the academy at Annapolis succeeds in teaching midshipmen to be masters of their ships in time of war or peace, intelligent people will agree that it is performing its proper functions, even though its graduates cannot philosophize with the ghost of Aristotle.

Luxuries are still so high we have to go without some necessities.

Neighbors judge a new family by the furniture that goes in.

Pennsylvania mileage of improved roads by types completed and under construction January 1, 1927:

Graded and drained miles—304; graveled miles—74; bituminous macadam miles—1,239; bituminous concrete miles—227; concrete miles—2,221; brick miles—287.

The United States Department of Public Roads says that Pennsylvania Highway Department completed 251.66 miles of the Federal Highway system in 1926, and has on its construction program for 1927 a total of 139.40.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., May 5 (U.S.)—Having had some experience in the construction of Pennsylvania roads and streets, Mrs. Rowena Moser, widow of the late William R.

Moser, contractor of this city, will carry on the unfinished work of her husband.

Moser died here recently after he had underway a state project at Herndon, Pa. Mrs. Moser will complete this work, she has announced. It also is believed that she will continue to run the business of her husband and contract for more road and street projects.

One of the biggest parts of this present project is an immense fill that is closing a gap in the mountain a mile above Herndon. About one-third of the filling process has been finished and will be completed this summer by cutting down the mountain top with dynamite and throwing it in the breach.

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, working his way through college, is informed by his chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—working as dancing partners, of afternoons, for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but, faced with eviction for unpaid rent, reluctantly agrees to go to the roadhouse. There he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he had ever laid eyes on. She disappears while his chums are presenting him to the proprietress, Madame Leonine.

"Thanks, Madame Leonine," said Arch, "we're glad you like Bob. We knew you would—because he's the despair of every lovelorn girl who comes to the school dances and the champion hooper of New York University to boot, along with being this year's All-American tackle. Gee, what a better combination could you want to bring business to your dance hall?"

Madame Leonine chased Freddy and Arch off to the dressing rooms, to hurry into their ballroom shoes and the light, neat, natty serge suits they wore for the dancing. Then she took personal charge of Bob.

"I suppose the boys told you something of the work—or what is required of you here?" she asked affably.

Bob, wondering where in tarantation that sweet girl had gone to, turned his eyes upon the Amazon, and confessed that they had not told him much—that he was still a good deal in darkness.

Madame Leonine linked arms with him and promenaded deliberately along the rim of the dance floor, leading him toward the dressing rooms, but at the same time to be introduced to the athletic Lothario.

Upon one and all the Madame bestowed the wide sunshine of her smile.

Bob did not notice. His eyes were searching for something that the Madame would not recognize if she saw. That is, she would not see in it what he saw in it! Which means—the same.

"Do—do—any of your—err—r—patrons—come here sometimes in costume?" Bob asked.

The Madame looked at him peculiarly. What a nutty question!

"No," she said crisply, "this ain't a masquerade!"

Then Bob was sure he had been dreaming. He felt depressed. He wanted to turn right around and go out and walk in the woods and dream and never stop wandering. Something had miraculously filled his life for an instant, like a holy candle flame, and then it had gone out again—as mysteriously, unaccountably, as it had entered.

He followed Madame into the dressing room, back of the dancing floor and the stacks of tables. Then suddenly his life was filled again. For there SHE stood!

CHAPTER IV

Again Bob Ward's world stood still. Again his immediate surroundings faded out of his consciousness and he seemed to be standing, as in a far off dream, in some old and forgotten garden, at twilight, the air heavy with lavender scents and filled by the gentle sifflings of birds hushing and nesting down for the night, while the half lights of dusk glowed faintly around the beautiful form and image of a cameo princess.

"Sally, meet Mr. Ward—Bob Ward, the great football player, you know whose picture was in the papers last autumn. He's going to dance here. Mr. Ward meet Miss Sally Smith, our cigarette girl!"

Now he was grinning sheepishly and scraping and stammering to the Vision, and the Vision—tantalizing, aggravating, clear and cool eyed for a Vision!—was smiling a return greeting.

Sally Smith! What a prosaic name for such a romantic girl. Romantic looking, that is. But now the romance was stolen from her costume, too—for had not Madame said she was "our cigarette girl"? That explained the costume. Nothing of old lace and sweet lavender about that. Just a catch-penny scheme to lure half-dollars from old roués for ten cent packs of cigarettes.

Thus his Vision! Pout! Bob could feel Freddy and Arch watching him—wondering at his abstraction, laughing at him for the silly, romantic ass he had made of himself. Mooning over a pretty girl in a quaint costume! Hah! He—

Oh Lord, the eyes—HER eyes—were burning into him again. It was not all sham; not just a mock show. There was sincerity and depth and earnestness in those eyes. Yes, and genuine romance.

After all, the eyes and the face and the combed-honey hair fitted the cigarette girl costume, quite as much as the costume fitted them!

Madame Leonine did not even give him time to mumble to Sally the commonplace that crowded to his lips. Scarcely gave him time for a polite acknowledgment of the introduction. She whisked Sally off on her rounds of the brimmed tables, that surrounded the dancing oval like overgrown toadstools. She hustled Freddy and Arch inside, to give their services to whatever women wanted them for the next dance. And she counseled Bob.

"I suppose the boys told you to put on your lightest pair of shoes. Yes, those look okay. Now, if you make good as a hooper here this afternoon I'll stake you to a good-looking new suit and a pair of dancing shoes. You'll be more comfortable—and even handsomer. Clothes make any kind of a man—a better man! All right, freshen up a bit now—you'll find some perfume in that squirt spray, there—and then come in and I'll introduce you to some Countess from Hoboken or points south."

Presently Bob walked diffidently in to strut his first professional afternoon on a roadhouse dance floor.

A flashily dressed woman, neither too young nor too old, but in the middle years of great wisdom and great indiscretion, saw Bob in the Madame's wake and quickly approached them. She walked, Bob noted, like a snake—with slinky undulations of her trim, rounded hips. Her metallic eyes sparkled with newly stoked interest in life as she smiled upon Bob. Bob felt that it was part of his duty, undoubtedly, to smile back. The reaction upon the woman's face was little short of radiant.

Madame glowed with the pride of a discoverer; an innovator. The pride that Balboa might have shown on that peak in Darien. The pride that the first man to introduce humped hairpins might have shown.

Mrs. Moser was active in her husband's work while he lived and it is the general opinion she will now take full charge and continue his business.

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Celebrates Anniversary Of Weekly Dinner Sessions

DOYLESTOWN, May 5.—With a number of boys of the community and visiting Kiwanians and Rotarians as guests the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown celebrated its third anniversary at the weekly dinner meeting held at Brunner's Cafe.

The anniversary party was arranged by Kiwanians Harry Hoffman and Hiram H. Keller, who secured as the speaker for the occasion, Kiwanian Orrin E. Doyle, of Allentown, district attorney of Lehigh County, who delivered one of the outstanding talks of the year.

As part of the Boys' Week program here, Kiwanians brought boys of the community as their guests of the evening. Kiwanian "Honors" Wagner furnished a fine birthday cake with three candles placed in the center, representing the age of the club.

Answering the call of Kiwanis International for assistance for the Mississippi Valley flood sufferers, Kiwanians during the evening started a flood fund that amounted to $100, even before the meeting adjourned. This donation will be turned over to the Doylestown branch of the American Red Cross today. The birthday cake, given away as an attendance prize, was won by Kiwanian A. Oscar Martin, who in turn sold it to the highest bidder for $3, which was placed in the flood fund.

Greetings from the Allentown Kiwanis were extended by Elwood Thomas, past president of the Allentown club. "I want to congratulate the Doylestown club on this fine contribution made tonight to the flood sufferers," said Kiwanian Thomas. "It shows you are doing something worth while."

Kiwanian Guernsey Afterbach, of Allentown, also congratulated the Doylestown club and invited the members of the local club to visit the Allentown club at any time.

Announcement was made by Past President Samuel Stillwell, who presided at the meeting, that a delegation of about fifteen members of the club will attend the district conference and inter-club meeting at Norristown today. Kiwanian Orrin Doyle, who is the past president of the P. O. S. of A. of Pennsylvania, gave an inspirational talk on Kiwanis and what it means.

"Kiwanis, Rotary and other service clubs are not what many think they are, knife and fork clubs," declared Kiwanian Doyle. "Many people have the wrong slant on service clubs. The results of the accomplishments of service clubs throughout the United States are being felt today more than at any time."

"Business and professional men throughout the United States have organized for the good of humanity and are serving and building through club work. Kiwanis, as well as any other service club, is the translation of a governmental idea into a social practice."

"The American business and professional men are now harnessing the things they have been accumulating for many years in this great country. What you have done here tonight to relieve the suffering of the people of the Mississippi Valley is testimony of the value of such organization for the good of humanity."

"Just so long as Kiwanis, Rotary, and other service clubs of America continue to carry on for the good of mankind, the future of the world will be a bright one."

"And so on this third anniversary of the Doylestown club, the important question is not what you have accomplished in the past but what you can do tomorrow."

"Become more interested in the boys of your town. It is fine to see these young Americans here tonight. Take an interest especially in the boys who might not have the opportunity that your boy has. If you can, as Kiwanians, save a boy by moulding him into a real man, you are building a greater America and are serving well."

Joseph K. Weaver, of Lansdale, was a visiting Kiwanian in attendance last night. Rotarian Arthur H. Eastburn, of Doylestown, was also a guest.

At the meeting of the board of directors previous to the dinner last evening, the board passed upon six new applications for membership.

A CIVIC DUTY--

It is a civic duty owed to the community to buy in our home town. Local merchants support Bristol and its activities and in turn they deserve to be supported.

VARIETY OF STOCKS--

Often times it is the complaint of the shopper who goes out of town to buy that local stores do not carry the assortment or the grade of stock which is desirable. Any wide-awake merchant will stock his shelves with that class of merchandise that is demanded. That is only good business.

PRICES ARE LOWER--

This is another excuse which is often given by those who go out of Bristol to shop. It is reasonable to suppose that merchants here are not making any larger profits than those engaged in business in the cities. Overhead expenses in Bristol are sure to be lower than those in the high rent districts of the large cities.

Dodge Company Announces Distinctive New Car

Dodge Brothers, Inc., announce the addition of a distinctive new car to its line—a convertible cabriolet with rumble seat which will be a companion car to the present sport roadster. The new coupe is unusually smart looking and with its rumble seat, utility and style are admirably combined. The body lines are long and racy and the color scheme is exceptionally attractive, according to Percy G. Ford, local Dodge Brothers dealer. The body is lacquered in armory green and contrasts strikingly with the tan top and lustrous black fenders and shields. The belt moulding around the body is black, striped with armory green and cream adding materially to the coupe's smart appearance.

The top is of tan colored waterproof material of unusual durability. The braces are so constructed that in folding it down the material will not be cracked or worn by rubbing. A boot can be used to protect it from dust and water when it is folded.

It is very easy to lower, it being only necessary to unlatch two latches at the upper corners of the windshield. When raised it fits the windshield in such a manner that no water can enter, even in the worst storm.

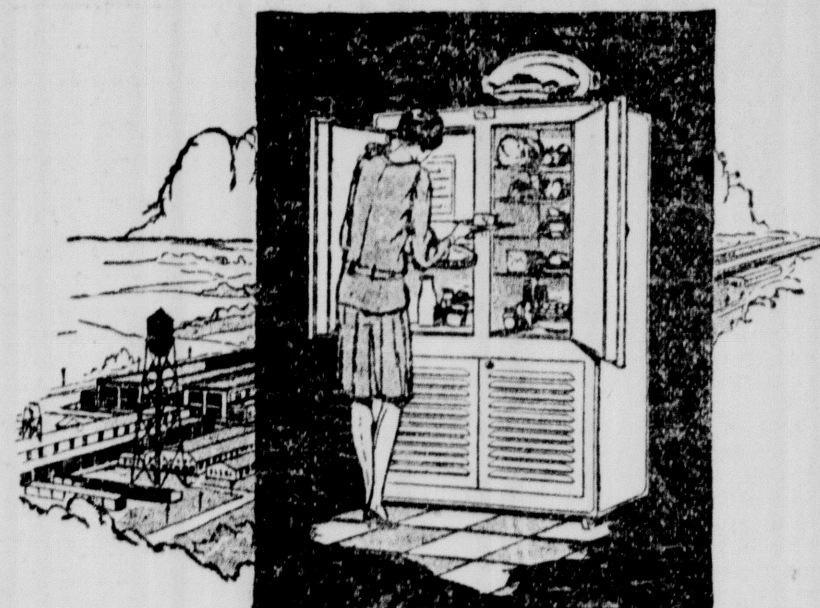

The deep comfortable cushion and back of the rumble seat like the upholstery in the front, are of green Spanish, genuine leather constructed over spring frames to assure maximum riding ease. The back is high and tilted at a comfortable angle.

The deck is so constructed that when the seat is folded down the rear compartment is absolutely waterproof.

The interior of the car is leather upholstered and the appointments are finished in nickel. The glass covered panel on which the instruments are mounted is finished in green gold, harmonizing with the colors of the body.

The wire wheels, with which the car is equipped, are green to harmonize with the predominant body color. A fifth wheel is included as standard equipment.

The radiator, motometer, hood clamps, front and rear bumpers, and top props are finished in nickel, adding to the coupe's distinguished appearance.

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

As I see it—

Observations About Events, Persons and Things Which Are of General Interest. : : :

SEVERAL months ago there was offered in the Mother Country, a prize for the best definition of "a friend."

The prize-winner described a friend as "the one who comes in when all the world goes out." What a glorious privilege—to prove worthy of such an appellation!

We refer to this individual living close at hand as a friend, and another residing at a distance as such probably. But are they worthy of our trust and have we in turn proved our dependability?

I believe it is one of the most cherished of relationships—that of being a real friend to another. To our friend we confide our joys and sorrows, and in turn they tell us of their hopes and ambitions; and each places an implicit faith in the other's trustworthiness.

Our friend will not allow others to speak ill of us in his presence, and we would not think of having the one we cherish in that light unjustly accused.

Another has said a friend is "One who knows all about us and loves us just the same."

Yes, we could tell much about our friend, and probably the knowledge we possess would not all be commendable to that individual. But because we have opened our heart to him and he has done the same for us, we remain silent, defending him thus.

He is our friend.

We know whom to call upon in time of need, and are cognizant of the fact that he willingly will return past favors. Therefore we prize that friendship.

To our friends should due credit be given for the outlook we have on life, for they have contributed much toward our opportunities and our attitude toward life itself.

Let us prize such friendship, for—"More than fame and more than money
Is the comment kind and sunny,
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend;
For it gives to life a savor,
And it makes you stronger, braver,
And it gives you heart and spirit to the end."

WOMEN WITH BOBBED HAIR VERY EASILY GET RID OF GRAY HAIRS

With Color Glands Normal
Nature Keeps Hair Natural Shade
SENSIBLE ADVICE TO WOMEN TURNING GRAY

Everyone knows if their color glands and hair roots are active and normal they will continue indefinitely to have rich, natural colored hair entirely free of gray, or off-colored locks, so why use dyes or tints?

A doctor several years ago asked himself this question: "If with certain medicines I can stimulate my patient's other organs, why not rub a stimulating tonic into the scalp that will revive, strengthen and tone up these inactive glands so that nature in her own inimitable way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes? Surely the hair will then again resume its original shade and color regardless of the users age or previous condition of their hair."

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY
He didn't want an artificial dye or tint and it of course must be harmless and something that could be used for years and years without the slightest injury to hair or scalp. Just like a tonic that builds up a person's strength after some long wasting illness, he wanted a tonic that would revive and stimulate the inactive, weak, or dormant hair roots and color glands. Under the name of Lea's Hair Tonic anyone may now purchase the scalp food and tonic he finally perfected. For several years hair dressers and specialists have been using it. Results are so natural, gradual and nice that men as well as women use it.

It doesn't stain the scalp. One's friends seldom notice the gradual change and to test what it will do one need only apply it to some small spot for a week or two and watch results.

Men and women in all walks of life have been amazed at the younger appearance that come with the disappearance of gray hairs from their head. Evidently one need never become gray if they keep the scalp and roots toned up with an occasional massage with Lea's Hair Tonic.

If any reader desires to try a bottle of Lea's Hair Tonic on the maker's absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back, they should purchase a bottle at the drug store or pin a dollar bill to this advertisement and send with name and address plainly written to Lea's Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md. $1 bottles parcel post anywhere with full directions.

No one need have gray or off-colored hair any more.—(Adv.)

that can be made into HOMES

Two-story brick residences containing six rooms and bath. All newly papered and painted throughout. Conveniences which are to be found in any modern house today—electricity, gas, hot air heater, water. Front porches of ample size and large bay-windows on second floor. A rear yard just big enough to be kept neat and attractive. With the touch of a housewife these dwellings can be made into real homes of comfort. Rents are very moderate. Location is good.

YOU FOLKS WITH ACHES AND PAINS CAN GET QUICK RELIEF

Nationally Known Baseball Trainer Says It Does Not Matter Whether It Is Lumbago, Sciatica,
Neuralgia or Neuritis

LINIMENT HE USES ON BIG LEAGUE
BALL PLAYERS STOPS PAIN QUICK

Tells How to Stop Pains,
Aches, Lame Back
Quickly

READ WHAT THIS
EXPERT SAYS BELOW

For 25 years I have studied how to keep men in perfect physical condition and my experience makes me certain I can take a person no matter how much they ache and hurt, from rheumatism, lame back, neuritis, lumbago or neuralgia, and quickly have them feeling like running a foot race or a home run.

Ball players after getting up a sweat often plan an inning or two in the rain and then damp, cold and chilled to the bone, catch trains, with result that next day they show up at the ball park so crippled with rheumatism, lameness and stiff joints that they can hardly walk. An ordinary liniment would never fix them up quickly, but the liniment we use does the trick, declares Mike Martin, genial trainer of the Washington Baseball Club.

FANS KNOW MIKE
So many people with rheumatism, lame backs, neuritis and neuralgia have wanted this liniment which we use at the ball park that bottles are mailed all over the country and now it can be obtained at any good drug store in small bottles for a few cents. Just ask for Mike Martin's Liniment. It is guaranteed to be the finest, speediest liniment made and will bring complete relief to user or money refunded. Folder enclosed with each bottle tells

MIKE MARTIN, Trainer
Washington Base Ball Club

how to use this liniment. If people out of town cannot get Mike Martin's Liniment they should send a dollar for large size bottle to Mike Martin, Trainer, Washington Ball Club, Washington, D. C. It is a wonderful liniment. No men or women with aches or pains should do without it.—(Adv.26.)

IN MEMORIAM

PINKNEY-In loving memory of our mother, Olivia, who passed away May 5th, 1926.

A faithful mother has gone to rest
Her fond true heart is still
Her hands that always helped us
Lie now in death's cold chill
Everybody's friend was our dear mother

What happy hours they would enjoy
How sweet the memories still
But death has left a loneliness
This world can never fill

Tho' fate our paths may separate
And hide your smile from view
'Tis powerless to take from us
Our memory of you.

Sadly missed by her children:

Webster Achey, of Doylestown, attorney for the defendant, Campe, not a railroad, did not answer on the "Delaware and Lackawanna."

"I was almost scared to death," testified Campe. "I believe Johnson was dead when I looked at him," he added. It was later testified that Johnson died a few minutes after being admitted to a Trenton hospital.

Chief of Police Cooper, of Morrisville, prosecutor in the case, testified that he found the truck with all four wheels up on the sidewalk of the bridge.

"In the office of a Justice of the Peace," testified the Chief, "Eismann told me that another car had crowded him over and that his car jumped the curb at a break in the curb, and ran up on the pavement."

H. R. Dawley, of Morrisville, N. J., another Commonwealth witness testified that he was driving in another automobile toward the bridge and saw the accident. He said he saw the two men walking along the pavement on the bridge and saw the armored car come up behind them. He said that he heard no warning horn sounded from the Eismann truck and said that in his opinion there was no other traffic in sight with the exception of his own car and that his car was on the right side of the roadway.

Deputy Sheriff Chris Sipler, keeper of the free bridge on which the accident happened, testified that in his opinion, the armored car ran a distance of 86 feet on the sidewalk of the bridge, after it had jumped the curb. "I was watching the road ahead of me," testified Eismann in defense. "I did not see Daniel Johnson or any body else ahead of me. I was crowded over by the car of E. R. Dawley and in getting near the curb one of my truck wheels struck a broken piece of curb and caused the car to jump onto the sidewalk. I tried to steer back into the street but could not. I finally brought the truck to a stop and got out and investigated when I found that Johnson was underneath, and that is why I could not steer the truck back to the main highway of the bridge."

A number of defendants appeared for trial late yesterday afternoon charged with various offenses in connection with the alleged operation of a house of ill repute in Hilltown township near Dublin.

Lawrence Gilbert is charged with the possession and sale of intoxicating liquors. Clara Gilbert, his wife, is charged with keeping a bawdy and disorderly house, and Jesse Wiley and Peggy Heltzel are charged with other crimes in connection with the raid made on the place by State Police last February. Lawrence Gilbert is also charged with maintaining a bawdy and disorderly house.

Corporal William Burgoon, formerly in charge of the State Police substation at Doylestown, and prosecutor in the case, testified that his detail purchased about twenty-five drinks at the Gilbert place for twenty-five cents a drink. The trooper also gave damaging testimony against the wife of the owner of the place and against the girls arrested in the raid.

In defense, Gilbert flatly denied all charges made by the police who testified for the Commonwealth.

Nothing is as interesting at a circus as the baby menagerie. When the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus appears here, patrons will have an opportunity to see baby elephants, juvenile camels, small ponies, cub lions, little tigers and other cat animals, and in fact both domestic and wild animals, small in size and also young in age. Miss Babe Gardner is the official guardian of all the babes in the Hagenbeck-Wallace double menagerie and she is aided in caring for her pets and charges by other circus women. Not only does she watch their feeding and proper treatment by the male employees, but she also conducts a school daily to see they receive instructions on how to become good circus performers. The Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus comes for afternoon and night performances on Saturday, May 7, in Burlington, N. J. The tents will be pitched on the grounds at the Civic Center Showgrounds. A downtown ticket sale will be conducted on Circus Day at Liggett's Drug Store.

DODGE BROTHERS CONVERTIBLE COUPE

Dodge Brothers, Inc. announces the addition of a distinctive new car to its line—a convertible coupe, which will be a companion car to the present sport roadster. The new coupe is unusually smart looking and with its rumble seat, utility and style are admirably combined.

The body lines are long and graceful and the color scheme is exceptionally attractive. Lacquered in armory green, the body contrasts strikingly with the tan top and lustrous black fenders and shields.

The top is of tan colored water-proof material of unusual durability. The braces are so constructed that in folding it down the material will not be cracked or worn by rubbing.

Cushion and back of the rumble seat are green Spanish genuine leather and are deep and comfortable. The back is high and is tilted at a comfortable angle.

The interior of the car is upholstered in the same green Spanish genuine leather as that on the rumble seat. The interior appointments are finished in nickel.

The wire wheels, with which the car is equipped, are green to harmonize with the predominant body color. A fifth wheel is furnished as standard equipment.

The radiator, motometer, hood clamps, front and rear bumpers and top props are finished in nickel, adding to the coupe's distinguished appearance.
